1. [] ship visited Klaipeda [], there were five ten-ton cranes on the quay where the ship berthed. Each crane had a large and a small hook, and moved on sunken rails. There were two sets of these rails on the quay, which was paved but looked neglected. The quays to seaward were undergoing repair. Only a few workers, about half of them women, were observed. 25X1
2. North of the harbor area, four guns pointed toward the harbor entrance. They were located between a small wood and the river. The barrels of the guns, protected by rectangular shields, were ten to 12 feet long. The bases were camouflaged with nets and green branches.
